

life, tried recently in Cork, under such appalling circumstances. The menace was intended for a most respectable employer in this city, as was proved at Petty Sessions yesterday. The above miscreant was strongly suspected of being accessory to the murder of Daniel Griffin, a country carpenter, at West Watergate, in August, 1840, and, it appeared by the inquiries then instituted, was drinking with Michael Fitzpatrick, also a sawyer, the night and morning of the day on which the latter killed his unoffending victim, by a blow of the stone on the head, for which crime Fitzpatrick was found guilty at Spring Assizes last year, and sentenced to death; but the capital punishment was mitigated to transportation, and the murderer has "left his country, for his country's good."

This morning a poor man name unknown, apparently about 60 years, and wearing an old frieze jacket, a blue plush breeches, grey stockings, but no shoes, was found dead near a lime kiln at Thomond-Gate, by Sub-constable Hardy.

The Ladies of the Institute of Mercy, an establishment which has been since its introduction into our city, the instrument of much good to the poor, find it necessary from increasing numbers to enlarge their Convent in St. Mary's. To effect this object, it is indispensable that the old portion of the Convent rendered insecure by age, should be taken down. On the site it is proposed to erect a house more commodious for the inmates, and more suitable for the important objects which the order contemplates. The Roman Catholic Prelate of this diocese, Rt. Rev. Dr. Ryan, anxious to promote the welfare of the Poor, and to testify his appreciation of such an establishment, after knowledge of its working for three years, has given the generous donation of £200, towards the expense of the erection. This munificent example has been followed by the Mayor, Martin Honan, Esq. who has given for the same purpose, the liberal sum of £50; and our fellow-citizen, Thomas M'Namara, Esq. Charlotte's-quay, has handed over to the Ladies 60*l.* in aid of the good work.

Two men are taken at Williamstown, Tipperary, for the murder of John Butler Bryan, Esq. Wexford.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY.—This day the annual Spring Show of Fruits, Flowers, and Vegetables, was held in the Philosophical Society rooms. In quantity the several specimens produced were not equal to that of preceding years, but in quality we are fully assured they were much superior. A specimen of the Clyanthus Punicæus, and another of the towering Acacia, brought forward by Mr. Bevan, particularly arrested our attention. The appearance of the room was, on the entire, most superb, and the different shrubs, flowers, and plants produced, reflect the highest credit on the skill, care, and industry, of the fosterers. In addition to the Horticultural show, there were laid open for inspection some rare and antique pieces of fossils, minerals, instruments of Indian warfare, &c. besides models of steam engines, belonging to the infant museum. At two o'clock the room was thrown open for public exhibition; the attendance was full and fashionable, and in order to give no room for a charge of partiality, the articles were distinguished by numbers (without names.) The Bands of the 74th Depot, and Musical Academy, enlivened the promenade.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE.
Sir,—It having been stated by Mr. Kane at Petty Sessions this day, that the prevailing public opinion is, that the apprentices in the Lace Factories in Limerick, "are unjustly fined and not fairly dealt with." I feel it my duty to give this assertion my most unqualified contradiction, and now call upon Mr. Kane, or any person or party whomsoever, to prove the truth of this statement so publicly made, and at the same time, I court the fullest inquiry and investigation into any or all the transactions of my establishment, and defy either the worthy Magistrate or any other gentleman, to shew, in one single instance, that any, even the slightest injustice or arbitrary conduct has been practiced against any girl in my employment.

I am, Mr. Editor,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM LLOYD.
