

We are authorized to state, that at the request of the committee appointed to receive subscriptions for the relief of the Portuguese, the list is left at the Bank of George Evans & Co. Esqrs. and that the signatures and subscriptions are to be published.

On Monday last, in the bloom of youth and beauty, possessed of every endearing accomplishment—highly gifted by nature, and blest with the best disposition, Mrs. Jane Cornwall, lady of Major Cornwall, of the Carlow regiment, and daughter of the late Henry Brady, Esq. of this city, was snatched from her afflicted husband and truly affectionate mother, at the early age of 19, at his seat at Myahal, county Carlow. She bore her illness with the pious resignation of a Christian—and with the prospect of a better world, calmly yielded her departing spirit without a struggle or a sigh.

CATHOLIC PETITION.

We are enabled to state, upon the authority of a letter from Lord Fingal, received on Monday by Mr. Hay, the Catholic secretary, that the petition to the House of Commons will be taken into consideration on the 31st inst. of which notice has been given by Mr. Whitbread, by the desire of Mr. Grattan, whose absence was occasioned by the death of a near relative, we believe, Col. Boshy. We hope and trust that as this early notice will give full time to all friends of the measure to attend, all the Irish and English members, who intended to support this great national question, will appear in their places upon that day.—Correspondent.

Mr. Burke, of Glusk, sailed on Saturday last for England with the address of the County of Galway, to the Prince Regent.

On Friday last, at two o'clock, the Lord Mayor of London, accompanied by the Recorder, the Sheriffs of London and Middlesex, Messrs. Aldermen Sir Wm. Plummer and Goodbehere, and the city remembrancer went to Carlton-house as a deputation from the Corporation of the city of London. After their arrival they were introduced by Col. McMahon, General Turner, and Colonel Bloomfield, into the presence of his Royal Highness the Prince Regent, in the state-room, where the Recorder read to his Royal Highness the Address of the Corporation, voting his Royal Highness the freedom of the city, and praying to know when he would receive the same.

His Royal Highness made a most eloquent answer, acknowledged his sense of the honour intended to be conferred upon him, and his attachment to the Corporation; at the same time expressing his regret that the spirit of the constitution prevented him from receiving it, owing to the office he held of Prince Regent. They were all most graciously received, and invited by his Royal Highness to partake of a cold collation.

On Monday evening a most distressing accident occurred in Widdowstown, on the Blackrock road. As the Wexford mail was passing through the town, it overthrew a fine girl, four years and three months old, and killed her on the spot! She was the daughter of Christopher Lalor, bricklayer, an inhabitant of the place. This dreadful occurrence is said to have been caused through omitting the customary announcement of the coach by blowing a horn.

RAISING AN ARMY.—On the night of Thursday, or early on Friday morning last, some villain or villains attempted to break into the shop of Mr. Chick Knight in Quay-street, Galway, by means of an iron crow, which they had nearly forced between the frame and door, by which they broke one of the large locks; but not being able to effect their design, they then proceeded to the back door, which they bored in the centre and also attempted to force, but in vain, they then took out a stone close to the frame, which enabled them to remove the cross bar, but fortunately were unsuccessful, it being protected by a stiling. This is the third attempt made on this young man, in each of which the villains were foiled.

MURDER.—A most sanguinary murder, accompanied with circumstances that makes the blood freeze with horror, was perpetrated in the Phoenix Park, on Thursday night last. Some villains attacked a man and his wife, near the Lord Lieutenant's Lodge, and killed the unfortunate woman who was far advanced in pregnancy, by which circumstance a double murder was accomplished! The man was only slightly hurt. There are such strange reports circulated concerning this atrocious transaction, that we shall, at present, content ourselves with a confident hope, that the axe of justice will soon fall on the guilty head.

The London Gazette of Saturday, which was expected to contain the official dispatches relative to the naval victory in the Adriatic, has not been received. From another source of authenticity, however, we are enabled to state the precise loss of the British, which was as follows:

OFFICERS KILLED.

Amphion.—John Shearman, Midshipman; W. Hays, Boatswain.

Active.—None.

Volage.—Mr. George Midshipman.

Cerberus.—Mr. Davy, Midshipman; Mr. Jeffry, acting Purser.

WOUNDED.

Amphion.—Messrs. Frewell and Hoyle, midshipmen. Cerberus.—Lieut. Compton, since dead; Mr. Lewis, clerk, and Lieut. Kuapman, Royal Marines. Total loss in Killed and wounded amounts to 199.

SIR F. BURDETT v. THE SPEAKER.

The Court of King's Bench has decided and given judgment on the demurrer in this action.

The Attorney General spoke, and displayed extraordinary energy and learning.

Mr. Holroyd replied; and

The Lord Chief Justice, in a most elaborate speech, delivered his opinion in strong and direct terms, that the plea of the defendant was good, that the Demurrer was, of course, bad.

In this opinion, the other two Judges (Grose and Bailey) agreed.

There is, therefore, an end to Sir Francis's action

TRALEE, MAY 16.—Last night, a most unprovoked

in a very few nights, and advised them to have their coffins prepared for the event. Not content with this inhuman treatment they afterwards rode over and destroyed upwards of sixty thousand brick, which had been laid to dry, and broke every article which they could find; they also stabbed several of the poor men with bayonets, fortunately without much injury; after which they departed.—Western Herald.

COURT OF KING'S BENCH, DUBLIN.

The King v. Lord Louth.

Lord Louth was tried at the last Assizes of Bondalk upon an indictment containing two counts—the first charging his Lordship with subornation of perjury, and the last, of mal-practices as a Magistrate. He was acquitted upon the first but found guilty upon the second; and on Friday last he appeared in the court of King's Bench to receive sentence. Upon this occasion Mr. Scriven addressed their Lordships as follows:—

My Lords, on the crown side of the court, I am humbly to move, that Lord Louth be brought up to receive the judgment of the court.

Mr. M'Cartney.—Your Lordships are informed that Lord Louth has made an affidavit in mitigation of punishment. That affidavit has been answered, but in the answer, a new fact, reflecting highly on the character of Lord Louth, has been introduced, which never appeared before the court. The fact in this: the parties state, that their father, who was agent to Lord Louth's grandfather, had entered into security for the late Lord Louth—and that they were obliged to pay a large sum of money for his grandfather.

Chief Justice.—What happened to Lord Louth's grandfather does not apply to his criminality; and we do not sit here either to hear or answer public clamour of any kind whatever.

Mr. M'Cartney.—I trust your Lordships will give us liberty to answer that part of the affidavit.

Mr. Duffin.—I can't perceive how the affidavit alleged to be an affidavit, in the most remote degree, to this case. With respect to the delay sought for, I shall only observe, that it is not my intention to force the judgment of the court; but if forced, this court will do justice.

Chief Justice.—Let the affidavit be answered; and it is the order of the court that Lord Louth be brought up on Tuesday to receive judgment.

Yesterday, his Lordship being brought up again before the court, Mr. Justice Osborne read from his notes, a report of the trial, which took place before his Lordship at Dumdalk, in which it appeared, that he had illegally committed to prison some of his tenants.

Messrs. M'Cartney and Joy then addressed the court in mitigation of punishment, and Messrs. Dunn and Scriven being heard in reply, his Lordship was bound, in a recognition of £2000, to appear on Saturday next.

BIRTH.

At the Rocks, the Lady of William Wheeler, Esq. of a son.

On Monday last at Millford, the lady of Col. Vereker, M. P. of a daughter.

MARRIAGES.

At St. Werburgh's church, Dublin, on Friday the 17th inst. Henry Rich, Esq. of the Inland navigation office, to Miss Taylor, daughter of Wm. Taylor, Esq. of Dublin Castle.

On Saturday last, Mr. Lawrence Carey, to the agreeable Miss Bayley, of Fishamble-street, Dublin.

DEATHS.

On Monday last, at an advanced age, at Prospect Hill, in this county, George King, Esq. a gentleman highly respected through life.

This morning in Patrick-street, Mrs. O'Brien, relict of the late James O'Brien, Esq. of Ennis, and sister to Lieut. General England, governor of Plymouth.

On Monday last the infant daughter of Col. Vereker.

On Friday Morning, at Union-Hall, County Cork, (the seat of Col. Limerick) Mrs. Limerick, relict of the late William Limerick, Esq. of Seale, in that county.

On Sunday evening last, at the parish chapel-house of St. John's, the Rev. R. O'Donnell, P. P. and R. C. Dean of Cash.

Frederick Hamilton Rowan, third son of Archibald Hamilton Rowan, Esq. This gallant young officer fell in the storming of Patamos, on the coast of Catalonia, on which service he had volunteered from his own ship, the Tigre.—To the bold spirit and generous feeling so natural to the service to which he was enthusiastically attached, there were observable in this gentleman a comprehension of mind and a nobility of character, which endeared him to his relatives and friends, as well as his brothers in arms, and which must have ultimately placed him at the head of his profession, had he not so early found an honorable grave. This gentleman's eldest brother, who now commands the Onyx, was shot through the foot at the assault of Rosette, on which service he had also volunteered. Though severely wounded, he still lives to serve his country, to avenge his brother's death, and illustrate his family.

On Monday, in London, after a tedious illness, which he bore with the greatest fortitude and complacency, Felix M'Carthy, Esq. long well known for his eccentricity and benevolence. Mr. M'Carthy, was the author of several political pamphlets upon subjects of temporary interest—His last production was one of considerable length and comprehension, upon the question of the Catholic Veto. Mr. M'Carthy was remarkable for his great stature, bulk, and strength, which, being united with a courage no less singular, rendered extremely formidable when provoked by insult, though, like most men so gifted, he was by his natural disposition extremely placid, good humoured, and forbearing.—His latter years, passed in the tranquillity of private life, exhibited alternate vicissitudes of generous, but extravagant, and thoughtless, hospitality; and of distress often bordering on want; which, however, could not subdue his spirit, or destroy his cheerfulness.—Mr. M'Carthy was a native of the County of Cork, and although he had been absent from his country for above 30 years during the earlier part of which he resided on the Continent, he always retained a sincere and ardent affection for his native land.

In Devonshire, where he went in hopes to recover his health, John D. Moore, son of Wm. Moore of Dublin, Esq. aged 17 years.
