Winter, V.S., had a big task entrusted to them, and they acquitted themselves in a manner which impressed itself on all, and left no doubt as to their fitness and ability to undertake the onerous duties attached to their office.

A large company paid for admission to the Bazaar last night, and enjoyed the rounds of amusement provided on all sides. The grounds, which looked decidedly pretty during the day, were distinctly brilliant last night when the place was lighted up with electricity and myriads of coloured lanterns. The stall holders had a busy time until the closing, and a feature of the entertainment was the presence of the Band of the Royal Munster Fusiliers.

To-day, there was again a fashionable and glad- some throng at the Carnival. The opening ceremony was performed by Mrs. Harding, who referred to the daintiness of the Fete, for which she bespoke a great measure of success.

The Bazaar will be continued to-night, when additional attractions will be provided.
