BREACH OF PROMISE of MARRIAGE.

erday was held before Lord Kenyon, as brought by Miss Mary Smith against Taylor, to recover a satisfaction in damages for breach of promise of marriage appeared by the evidence of several witnesses, that the plaintiff was the daughter of a eminent farmer, but in consequence of his manners, she went into service; the defendant paid his addresses to her with the approbation of all her friends for about two years, expressed a great regard for her, and desired his intention to marry her, but fixed no time. In expectation that he would marry his wife, one of the witnesses advanced a sum of money to go into a shop at Lichfield; and a few days before he left, he said, he would come to town in three months and marry the plaintiff; instead of fulfilling his promise, he married another woman with some fortune; upon examination, the witnesses said, that she was about 43 years of age, and the defendant addressed the Jury on behalf of Brooks, of West Bromwich, for 40 guineas; and although it was set aside by the vigilance of some gentlemen in the neighbourhood, yet a large company assembled, and two battles were fought: the first terminated in one of the combatants being carried to a neighbouring house, where he lay dangerously ill; and the second ended in the death of one Henry Smith, who received from his antagonist a violent blow on the left side, which burst a large artery; he instantly fell, and died.

DUBLIN, June 14.

The Rt. hon. Barry Yelverton, Chief Baron of his Majesty's Court of Exchequer, leaves town this day, in order to spend a few days at the seat of his son-in-law, Mr. Bingham, at Newbrook, in the county of Mayo.

The Chief Baron declared in Court on Saturday, that in the sittings after next Term, he would go through every record that was pending in his court.

Yesterday a party of the Goldsmiths corps, and also a party of the Dublin Independent Volunteers, marched from town to the Dargle, where they encamped, and on Wednesday next they return to town.

The Industry, of Irvin, William Sim, master, arrived here yesterday from Pittsburgh, but brings no particular news.

Friday a part of the regiment of Royal Welsh Fusiliers marched into our garrison from country quarters, to replace the 22d regiment, which marched out on Tuesday.

It is expected that there will be good sport at the Curragh this meeting, as several matches are to be run for on which considerable bets are pending.

A Faculty has passed the Great Seal, to enable the Rev. Arthur Gueber, D. D. to hold the Rectories and Vicarages of Crossboyne, Kilcolman and Mayo, in the diocese of Tuam, together with the Vicarage of Moyglare in the diocese of Meath.

His Grace the Archbishop of Tuam has been pleased to collate the Rev. Arthur Gueber, A. B. to the prebend of Falldown, and to the Rectories and Vicarages of Kileveran and Knockmoy, in the diocese of Tuam, vacant by the promotion of the Rev. Dr. Gueber.

Extract of a letter from Birr, June 8, 1791.

"Sir Lau. Parsons arrived here on Wednesday about two—the inhabitants of the town and neighbourhood went out to meet him; he was immediately chaired and carried about preceded by the manufacturers in a regular procession, and followed by an immense number of people, who testified by shouts and acclamations their sincere and heartfelt satisfaction at seeing him placed in that seat so honestly and so honourably filled for ages by his ancestors."
