GENERAL ORDER.
"Horse-Guards, June 24, 1820.
"It had been the intention of the Commander-in-Chief to await the issue of an investigation into the circumstances attending the recent occurrences in the 1st Battalion of the 3d Regiment of Guards, before his Royal Highness should circulate to the Army any observations, which the nature of those occurrences, and his sense of duty to the service might suggest; but the exaggerated rumours which have agitated the public mind upon this occasion, being calculated to weaken the confidence which the Army, and the Nation in general, have ever reposed in the British Guards; his Royal Highness feels it incumbent upon him to take this method of declaring that the King places the most firm reliance upon the loyal attachment, good order, and discipline, which have always distinguished and rendered the different corps of his Majesty's Guards an object of just pride, and boast of the country; and that his Majesty could never permit himself to believe, that a casual departure from the principles of discipline in any one Battalion—the instigators of which will be reprobated and punished, as they may be found to deserve—could afford any just grounds for entertaining a suspicion calculated to soil the reputation earned in the face of the world, by the gallant services of all the Regiments comprising this distinguished body of troops.
"Highly, therefore, as the Commander-in-Chief, must reprobate any dereliction of the strict principles of subordination, which some discontented and evil disposed individuals may have originated in the 1st Battalion of the 3d Regt. of Guards, it is still a satisfaction to reflect, and it is with pride his Royal Highness indulges the feeling, that the disposition of the other Regiments of Guards remains firm in a becoming sense of what is due to discipline and authority; and that they are incapable of bartering their high character for a participation in discontents, which are equally frivolous as they were groundless.
This Order to be read at the head of every Regiment and Corps in the Army, and entered in the Order's Book.
By command of his Royal Highness the Commander-in-Chief,
HENRY TORRENS, Adjutant-Gen.

A private of the 23d Fusiliers, named Edward Ballen, had been missing from his detachment at Broadford, Co. Clare, since Monday; a vigorous search being made for him, he was discovered on Wednesday hanging in the Wood near the village.
A Coroner's inquest was held by Mr. Sampson.
Verdict—Insanity.

Thursday, a man named Mathias Calligan, of O'Brien's-bridge, having had a dispute with another man of that place, so cut and maimed him with a hatchet, that he is not expected to recover.
Calligan has been committed to Kins Jail under an escort of Major Warburton's Police, by Thos.
Westropp, Esq. and Major Bourchier.

The following extract from the late Mr Grattan's Will, may not be uninteresting to our Readers:—
"I have a reversion in Fee, in my Queen's County Estate, and if all my children die without issue, living at the time of their death, I leave the said Estate back to the public—that is to say, to the following great Officers for the time being:— The Provost of Dublin-College, the Lord Chancellor of Ireland, the Lord Chief Justice of the King's Bench, the Lord Mayor of Dublin, the Bishop of Dublin and Judge Day, in trust, to
