LIMERICK CHRONICLE.
Public right, as to the partition of Thomas Holmes, the mention of which occasioned that no resistance had been taken on that occasion. A most gallant resistance was made by Heffernan, a Roman Catholic, who happened to be at the house when the door was forced open at the early hour of five o'clock, in the morning, in which Heffernan lay, he seized the only gun which was in the house, and which was heavily loaded, and with the butt-end of the nearest of the ruffians, of course, he was easily overpowered, who having knocked him down, he was most inhuman and savagely treated, and was being deliberately jumped on, and was senseless on the ground. This daring and courageous man pursued the ruffians in their flight, keeping them in view in the distance, until they reached the river. On attaining which, he evaded his further disposition to give merit its due, and willingly afford a statement of his conduct on this occasion, by which were it not for the fact that he had no controul, some of those in question would have been sacrificed, and their lives on the spot for which is becoming so frequent in this neighbourhood, and Governmental approbation of Heffernan's conduct, induce others to similar acts, and the use of arms is for the purpose of the owners of land in the exercise of their rights, if not checked, those who are the consequences. Heffernan is now in Tipperary, and though sadly ill, he is well. I am happy to tell you that the men from Holmes, are quite fit to be taken without locks and unfit to be trusted.
