Major Smith, of the 23d Royal Welch, is appointed Aide-de-Camp to Lieut. Sir H. T. Montresor, K. C. B. at

Rev. Doctor Kelly, of Kilkenny College, appointed Roman Catholic Bishop to the Diocese of Virginia, in the United States.

General Mourning in Ireland for the death of York is to commence to-morrow.

Races commenced yesterday. The course of the new line of road between Bandon, and Innishannon, and about four miles long. The arrangements made by Mr. the Steward, are excellent, from which a number of capital horses entered, very valuable sport is expected.

At the Assizes of Galway, Mr. James Kellery, Director of Excise for the District, was tried on a charge of forgery of two instruments purporting to be receipts of John Forde, on account of the Daunt Journal, for £26 3s. 2d. and 6d. and acquitted. The prosecution was conducted on by the Board of Excise, and Mr. Foster attended on their behalf.

Friday evening, Bernard Rochford and Egan, conspired at the present Assizes of Galway arrived here under an escort of Major O'Connell's Police, and were dispatched this morning to Cork, thence to be shipped to Botany Bay—they were tried for being leaders of a mutiny, and are respectably connected in Connaught, one of them we hear held a Lieutenant's commission in the militia.

Friday last, Michael Gorman was executed at the last Assizes. He appeared quite resigned to his fate, and fully confessed the justice of his punishment.

Notice has been received by the City Sheriffs of the execution of Michael M'Namara, at the last Assizes to be hanged this day, for robbery and felony in the house of Patrick M'Carthy at Cahirnarry.

their situation will be, if three or four hundred beggars are added to those who still prefer begging to partaking of good and wholesome diet provided for them in the depot, and also, to show them that without increased pecuniary aid, the institution cannot be upheld. The funds are not only exhausted but a debt of £150 has been contracted. Application has been made by letter to every non-subscriber in our City, as well as to those who withdrew their promised pecuniary aid, and we trust our fellow citizens will now come forward to uphold what their generosity founded—an institution highly beneficial in its effects, and most creditable to our City.

TO THE PUBLIC.

An aged and once respectable person is now compelled, with an infirm wife and helpless daughter, (through want of employment for upwards of two years, combined with bodily infirmity) to appeal to the sympathy of the charitable and benevolent among his fellow-creatures, and strongly to implore their assistance to prevent them from perishing by actual want, which most inevitably be their lot, if a christian hand be not extended, or this appeal be unsuccessful. The said person will be thankfully received at the Office of this Paper; or by Joseph Massey Harvey, and James and Samuel Phelps, Esqrs. to whom this case is known.

HAVING seen an Advertisement in the Widow's Bay, purporting to be from the United Trades of Limerick, boldly and openly attacking the Association, and attempting to pain upon public opinion, and provoked those attacks, we are obliged to reply to this notable document—to contain, by denying that we had, who were not regularly bred to this Association, so were acknowledged venturing to do so, but in Limerick of the Law, we, some months hence, that have since assumed the name of Magistrates, and the present Mayor decided that the Body of Coachmen withstanding this decision, these were resolved on making Laws to evince the moderation of their views attacked in open day—our lives are imminently endangered—and our fields of the suburbs, if we did not demand. The notice we should have made, would be to pass it by as a mis-statement; but that wicked attack we have endured, we are matters to dispute to the Magistrates, and to the United Trades, or upon the Trade one or two more to meet us at the Bench of Magistrates, and by their aid to abide; the United Trades shall will prove the sincerity with which we denounce the outrages already committed.
