Miscellaneous FeaturesKillinagarriff Old Church -- Local

14

See parish name. H. O'D.

Situated in the centre of Killinagarriff Td., and 2 chains N. of Rivers Td. It is about 3 chains east of Killinagarriff Bridge.

It was once a Roman Catholic Chapel, according to the inhabitants, but is now a ruin. The walls are about 30 ft. long, 20 ft. broad, and 10 ft. high. Attached to the ruined church is a burial ground, about 150 ft. square, with a large decayed tree about 3 feet south of the ruins, which are seated on a small eminence overlooking the river of Killinagarriff.

Killinagarriff Bridge -- Local

15

Situated in the centre of the Killinagarriff Td., and on the road leading from Ahane Chapel to Abington.

This bridge is said to have been built about 150 years ago. It is 2 chains long with 5 arches about 10 feet high.

Killinagarriff River

16

Situated between the Phs. of Abington and Killinagarriff, and in the td. of Killinagarriff.

This river bounds the parish about 1 mile on the E. It is about from 100 to 150 links broad, and is fed by the rivers Newport and Annagh. Its bottom is partly gravelly, and is well supplied with trout, salmon & pike.

Ardvarna Fort

-- Local

17

See townland name. J. O'D.

In the N. end of Ardvarna Td.

This fort forms nearly a triangle, about 3 chains on the E., same on the W., and 2 chains on the N. It is said to be inhabited by the fairies, who are often visible at night and noisy. They are said to have invisible castles built within the fort, which belief prevents the surface of the fort from being tilled, as the fairies are believed to be bad neighbours, when any injury is inflicted upon them.

Barrington's Bridge

-- Local

18

Situated on the road from Loughfane (†) to Annagh, and on the S. side of the junction of the rivers Newport, Annagh and Killinagarriff.

This bridge was built in 1836 by Sir Jonah Barrington at his own expense and for the accomodation of his tenants.

Loughtane Fort

-- Inhabitants

19

See name of td. J. O'D.

Situated in the W. end of Laghtane Td., and about 3 chains E. of the boundary between it and Biddyford td.

This is a circular enclosure, not cultivated, and with thorn bushes growing around it. It is said to be unlucky to damage it, as, like all such forts, it is said to be inhabited by the fairies.

Richardsons Fort

-- Inhabitants

20

-- J. O'D.

Situated in Laghtane Td., about 5 chains S. of the boundary between Knockbrack and Laghtane Tds.

It is about 2 chains in diameter, is enclosed by a ditch with some thorn bushes, and is not cultivated. It is seated on the highest part of the td.

Knocksentry Fort

-- Local

21

See name of townland. J. O'D.

Situated in the W. end of Knocksentry Td., and in a cultivated field belonging to a man named Ryan.

It is 2 chains in diameter and has what appears to have been an embankment round it, with 3 ditches running from it. It is not cultivated.

Annagh River

-- Local

22

-- J. O'D.

Eanach, a marsh.

Situated between the Phs. of Abington and Killinagarriff, and on the east side of Knockanbaun Td.

This river, it is said, flows from Keeper Hill, in the Co. Tipperary, and runs through the phs. of Abington and Killinagarriff. It is from 100 to 160 links wide, and in winter overflows the land on both sides of it. There are trout and salmon in it. The greater part of it is gravelly bottom.

Newport River

-- Local

23

-- J. O'D.

Situated between the tds. of Waterpark and Knockanbaun on the East and the tds. of Bunkey, Drominboy and Knocksentry on the West.

It is about 1 chain broad and runs along the centre of the parish to Knocksentry, and from thence until it meets the Annagh and Killinagarriff rivers N. of Barrington's Bridge. It overflows and covers the low part of the land along its banks in winter. There are trout, salmon and pike in it. Bottom muddy.

Bunkey Bridge

-- Local

24

See name of townland. J. O'D.

Situated on the road from Limerick to Tipperary, and on the boundary between the parishes of Stradbally or Castleconnell and Killinagarriff.

This bridge has but one arch. It is about 8 feet high and 10 feet long. At it the counties of Limerick and Tipperary meet.
