

from the banks of the river into the interior; Newark, Queenstown, and many other villages, were no inhabitants, except a few civil officers' deers. It does not appear, from the letters we seen, that Fort Malden had been attacked by Hull.

learn from Plymouth, that on the 10th instant American vessels were sent in there, both bound to with flour, from New York, and having from Mr. Foster. And also one from Baltimore without a license. The Swedish ship, Crown had just arrived, 34 days from New York; a Gleamer there, waiting for despatches from London.

Friday Malta and Gibraltar Mails reached town, to Falmouth by the Windsor Castle packet.—The letters from the former place are to the 26th of Intelligence had been received from Constantine the Grand Seignior had privately ratified the with Russia, and appeared determined to obstructly. There had been no official publication the terms, but all doubts on the subject have moved by the liberation of the Russian prisoner, who had obtained passports, and money their expences to their own country. The Minister, Chevalier Italinsky, arrived at Compe on the 30th June.

rate letter from the Turkish capital, of the July, states, that until the arrival of General si, the French Ambassador, expectations were ed that the Porte would have been induced to o the alliance forming between Great Britain, and Sweden.

ministers of the respective powers were indefatigable in their efforts: but the arrival of the General oved all hopes of their success.—The object essai's mission was to persuade the Grand to renew the war against Russia, and to coun above intrigue by threats of immediate ven. There is no expectation that the Turks will a free navigation of the Black Sea to any cept Russia.

posed that Bonaparte is anxious to penetrate w, in order to secure winter-quarters for his d abundant supplies. It is matter of doubt he Russians will hazard a battle in defence of the last week 50,000 stand of arms have ped from the Tower for the Baltic—they off in great haste. We have not learned they are destined for Sweden or Russia—if mer, we should consider it as a proof that ition from that kingdom will yet sail during t season.

General Sarrazin has obtained his passports burgh, it is yet a matter of doubt if the overment will admit him into their terri- General, previous to his obtaining his pas- nowledged that the £1200 per. annum was ed him, but that he asked £3000 per. an- is just demand, and that he looked upon matter of course, because Gen. Dounourier er of that sum.

which was down at 9½ premium on Mon- as declined to 7½, at which price it left off An expectation was held out by the Ame- nants, that within a few days we shall have rable tidings from the United States, seems ed its fall.

probably, a thousand other similar instances e given of the prolificness of the present est, the following fact is not unworthy no- e is at Harrow, an oat field which has yield- ters per acre. The plants were in general n growth. Some of the finest were selected eir being measured, it proved to be six h, and one inch and one eighth in girth.— straw bore two hundred and thirty seven e field is the property of Lord Northwick.

To the Editor of the Statesman.

ving singular fatality in the succession of England, I have extracted from The Po- w, or Monthly Mirror of the Times, for be a prophecy delivered by a British bard, f William the Norman, and preserved by analsists. The substance is an anathema, ifying that no more than three Monarchs gain reign over these kingdoms, without interruption. It is, however, undeniable ble to the observation of every one, that our history have hitherto proved it cir- true. I place not much reliance in pro-

London prints, to the 13th instant, inclusive, have been received.

The intelligence from the North of Spain, which we have extracted from THE LONDON GAZETTE of Saturday (received by last night's mail), is highly interesting—they are the latest official accounts of military operations in the Peninsula. The despatches are from Sir Howard Douglas, and our gallant countryman Colonel William Parker Carroll. The former communicates the surrender of Astorga on the 19th ult. to the Spanish force under General Santocildes, notwithstanding some obstinate endeavours of a division of the enemy 8,300 strong, to raise the siege; on learning the fall of Astorga, the enemy retired from La Baneza, evacuated Zamora on the 27th, and it was conceived would entirely abandon the line of the Douro. By the accounts from Colonel Carroll, we find that the enemy were repulsed in two attempts to re-possess themselves of Bilbao, by the Spanish force under General Mendizabel—the details of these exploits are circumstantial and most cheering, as they record the bravery displayed by the Spanish troops so newly organized, and only just released from the iron grasp of their oppressors. So briskly were the enemy pursued in their retreat, that they were compelled to fly in the greatest disorder. Another attack was expected, as the enemy received reinforcements from General Casfarelli, who, it is stated, was much exasperated by this signal defeat. The Spanish troops are represented to be in the highest spirits, and we hope they will boldly pursue their successful career. How desirable it would be, that the undaunted spirit which appears to pervade this gallant band of patriots, should circulate simultaneously in the veins of all our Spanish allies? then, indeed, would the cause of Spain triumph, and proudly bid defiance to the Usurper.

The above is the only authentic intelligence of importance, that we have received from the Peninsula; but report has not been idle.—It was rumoured in London on Thursday, and found its way into several of the papers, that Soult had been completely defeated by General Hill—this news, however, has since been ascribed to an erroneous construction given to the firing of the Park and Tower guns, on the siege of Cadiz being raised. On Saturday and Sunday, a report was in general circulation in London, that Joseph Bonaparte had been taken prisoner, and his army exterminated by Marquis Wellington, at Tarancon; it is said that this news was communicated to Government by Sir Home Popham, but merely as a report. So high is our opinion of Marquis Wellington, that we could not entirely discredit the most glorious achievement when ascribed to him; yet we can place very little reliance on this intelligence, resting on such vague foundation. Our expectations, however, run high, that important intelligence will shortly be received.

No news worthy of notice from the Northern Belligerents—the report, via Dover, of the success of the Russians, is merely a new revision of an old rumour.

The speech of Bernadotte, on the closing of the Diet, is liable to various constructions—some conceive that it indicates a neutral intent, while others are of opinion, that it is demonstrative of an intent to co-operate with Alexander—the reader must form his own opinion.

We are still without any decisive intelligence from America—and to proceed further under the standard of conjecture, would now be impotent, as we could only recur to former positions, to support our hopes. The borderers, both British and Americans, we are happy to find, preserve the most cordial amity.

The following is the total amount of the grain exported from Ireland, from 5th January, 1811, to 5th March, 1812:—

Barley	223 702 barrels.
Beans	11,371 do.
Oats	634 547 do.
Wheat	431,175 do.
Flour	146,088 cwt.
Oatmeal	44,474 do.

The Right Hon. Lord Adare has arrived at Cheltenham.

The Marquis of Camden, and his Grace the Bishop of Clogher, arrived at Linn's White Cross Hotel, in Belfast, on Wednesday last from Mount Stewart, the seat of Lord Londonderry, where he had spent some time, and shortly after took post-horses to proceed for Clogher his Grace's seat.

A gentleman writes from the Atlantic Hotel, Mil-town Malbay, that Mr Anderson illuminated that extensive building on Friday night, in honor of Marquis Wellington's victory over the French at Salamanca, and his entrance into Madrid, very splendidly; that there was also a ball and supper, attended by all the fashion and beauty of the country. The effect of the lights upon the Ocean and the country around was grand—the house appeared in a blaze, and gave abundant light to the numerous carriages in which company came, and all were highly pleased with the entertainment, and continued dancing and amusing themselves until two o'clock.

DUNCANNON RACES, SEPT. 10.

Mr. Murphy's b. m. Swindler	1 1
Mr. Manning's g. g. Dandy Davy	2 2
Col. Thornton's b. c. Boxer	dr.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 11.

Mr. Murphy's b. m. Swindler	2 1 1
Col. Thornton's b. c. Boxer	1 2 2
Mr. Locay's bl. g.	dist.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 12.

Mr. Hatchet's b. m. Little Molly	1 2
Mr. Hunt's b. h.	1 dr.
Mr. Sullivan's g. g. Farmer	bolled.

BIRTH.

At Bellevue, near Youghal, the lady of John Croker, of Ballyneguard, in this county, Esq. of a son and heir.

MARRIED.

On Sunday last, at Houndswood, co. Mayo, Henry Kirwan, of Castlehacket, Esq. to Miss Bingham, daughter of Major Bingham, late of Galway.

On Thursday the 10th inst. at Whitechurch, Bishop's-hall, Oliver Cuffe Jackson, Esq. Major of the North Mayo Regt. of Militia, to Miss Jones, eldest daughter of Humphry Jones, of Mullinabro, co. Kilkenny, Esq.

DIED.

On Wednesday, sincerely and deservedly regretted, Mrs Barry, wife of Mr. James Barry, of Scarravaha, in this county.

On the 3d inst. Mrs. Ann Long, wife to Thos. Long, of Aghadown, county Cork, Esq. and sister to Thomas Walton, of Walton Court, in said county, Esq.

Wednesday se'night, in Mallow, Thomas Sealy, of Courtinasherry, county Cork, Esq.

On the coast of Norway, of his wounds, Assistant-Surgeon Landers, of his Majesty's frigate Horatio.

Wednesday last, George Staupoole, of Cragbrien, county Clare, Esq.; a gentleman sincerely and deservedly lamented by his family and acquaintance; as a husband, father, friend, or landlord, his loss will be severely felt.

In the prime of life, at Gardinstown, county Roscommon, James Neville, Esq. son of the late Grey Neville, Esq. of that place.

In the Davis's straits Fishery, by the back stroke of the tail of a whale, Mr. W. Loggmoor, of Newcastle.

LIMERICK PORT NEWS.

ARRIVED—The Waterhouse, Humble, from Quebec, oak and pine timber and staves.

EXPORTS—The John and Nancy, for Greenock, 60 cwt. butter, 25 dozen calf skins, Harvey and Fisher's 186 cwt. botter. Thomas Hart.

LIMERICK MARKET.

Prices of Corn, &c. Sept. 13, 1812.

	s.	d.	s.	d.
Wheat per stone	2 9	to	3 1
Oats (New)	2 0	to	2 2
Rapeseed 54s. per barrel.

PRICE OF BUTTER—Sept. 13.

Fullboulds.—1st quality 116s.—2d 112s.—3d 110s.—4th 99s.
Coarse—1st quality 116s.—2d 112s.—3d 104s.—4th 92s.