

the auspices of your Excellency, the effects of which are already most sensibly felt in the part of Ireland; by the rapid increase in trade, and the facility given to intercourse by the consolidation of the Empire, impressed with the fullest confidence in your Excellency's attention to the general interests of this kingdom, we trust the experience of your commerce of this city will experience your care and protection. Permit us to offer our thanks for your Excellency's future happiness with your Excellency in the government, and for your continuance in Ireland."

His EXCEL-
"GENTLEMEN, MY ANSWER:
"I Am much obliged for your cordial address, and Congratulate me on my Arrival in this City:—The rising reputation of his Country affords me peculiar Satisfaction, and I assure you, I shall gladly embrace every opportunity of promoting the Trade and Commerce of this great City and the general Interests of Ireland."

In the evening his Excellency, with the Lord Chancellor, and a number of Citizens, were sumptuously entertained at dinner, by John Prendergast Smith, Esq.

At night the 28th regiment fired a grand FEU DE JOYE, and a general illumination, bonfires, &c. took place throughout the city and suburbs.—The new Windmill of Philip Roche John, Esq; in the rear of his extensive and commodious stores, was beautifully illuminated—had a most pleasing effect, and was beheld, with admiration, at several miles distance.

Amidst the variety of illuminations, and other testimonies of joy, displayed on his Excellency's arrival in this city, Mr. Sheriff McMahon's transparencies, exhibited the most beautiful and elegant appearance.—In his drawing room windows, on the right hand and upper part, was the Imperial Irish harp and crown, with the letters G. R. over the words "Vive le Roi." In the lower part, the Prince's plume, with the letters G. W.—Over the Earl's coronet, the letter, W. for Westmoreland.—On the left window was the Irish Harp and English Crown with the letters C. R. for Charlotte Regina, and the words "Vive La Reine"—Over the Princes Plume with the Letters G. W. and a Barons Coronet with the letter F. for Fitzgibbon.

The whole closed with firing cannon, rockets, &c. and all departed in the utmost harmony.

Friday last, the Rev. Mr. Shanahan returning from the fair of Dromin to Tubbernea, fell from his horse, and was unfortunately killed on the spot.

MARRIED.] A few days ago, John Blennerhassett Esq; son of Henry Blennerhassett Esq; to Miss O'Connell, dau. of Morgan O'Connell, Esq; of Kiltinan, near Rathkeel.

DIED.] Last Saturday, sincerely regretted by a numerous acquaintance, Mr. Wm. Boyle, late landholder at the Square.
