

Yesterday at one o'clock in the afternoon, his Excellency the Lord Chancellor held a Court in the great Committee-room of the House of Lords, for the purpose of examining Mr. John Magee, on the subject of a petition preferred to his Lordship, stating a derangement of his, the said Magee's, mental faculties. Mr. Magee having previously been brought to the Court from his confinement, by the High Sheriff, the business was opened by the Counsel for the petitioner; after which his Lordship proceeded to examine Mr. Magee, who, though at first much affected by his very critical and distressful situation, (so much as to shed some tears) answered every question propounded to him, with such clearness, perspicuity and precision, that his Lordship, without hesitation, declared the allegations or grounds of the petition unsubstantiated, and accordingly dismissed the procedure.

The Counsel with the Petitioner, (a near relation of Mr. Magee's) were the Recorder and Mr. Serjeant Duquery.

Paoli behaved for a long time like a brave General, when the Corsicans, were endeavouring to recover their liberties, from the Genoese, and even when the latter found themselves insufficient to subdue those gallant Islanders, and that the French were called in, that General headed the Citizens against a large army which had been sent over to subdue that small Kingdom, but fled to England before matters came so desperate as to justify such a measure, and then accepted of a pension from the Court of England—On this account his patriotism appears rather doubtful to many of his countrymen, and in the struggle for constitutional freedom in that Island, will not be relied on.

DIED. On the 3d ult. at Cloatanny, in the King's County, Edward Fitzgerald, of Piercetown, in the county Westmeath, Esq.

Kilkenny, Sept. 30. This day Henry Shearman, Esq; was sworn into the offices of the Mayor of this city for the ensuing year;—Edward Oldfield and John Waring, Esqrs. were sworn into the office of Sheriffs;—and Nicholas Colles and Arthur Gore, Coroners, for the same period.

Carlow, Sept. 30. Last week as an assistant at Mr. Motley's distillery in Leighlin Bridge, was diverting himself at some innocent amusement with the workmen there, he was seized with a fit of laughter, when standing up, and leaning against the wall, he instantly expired.

Cork, Oct. 1. On Tuesday the key-stone of the last arch of the New Bridge, was laid by the ancient and honourable society of Free Masons of this city.

Last night about nine o'clock a most violent hurricane began, the wind at S. S. W. which blew a perfect storm, until near morning.—Several houses and chimnies have been blown down, cabins unroofed, hay, corn, &c. blown away, trees torn up by the roots, boats and lighters drove from their moorings, and other injuries sustained.

We hear from the Cove that several vessels broke from their moorings, and were much damaged, in consequence of the above storm. The Hector, outward bound, was drove on the rocks at Kuskinnny, and it is feared damaged.

Clonmel, Sept. 30. Yesterday, being Michaelmas-day, Nathaniel Mitchel, Esq; was sworn into the office of Mayor, of this Corporation—and Thomas Power, and Thomas Gordon, Esqrs. Bailiffs, for the year ensuing.

courage and honour so justly attributed to his brave country in every part of the world, during the reigns of five successive Monarchs, should undoubtedly receive a pension proportionably augmented. Thirty-five pounds or guineas a year, seems not too great a recompence for the imminent dangers, hair-breath 'scapes, and enormous fatigues of so long and painful a service, and would do infinitely more honour to his Majesty's justice and patriotism, than all the civil pensions on the formidable list of Irish Concordatum since his accession to the Throne.

We hear that several young Gentlemen of this City intend performing a play for the benefit of the Poor House; when youthful ability is exerted to amuse the Publick, for such a laudable and useful purpose, we doubt not but they will meet a just and merited applause from a numerous and genteel audience.

Saturday Thomas Molony, Catherine Graidie, and Margaret Madigan, who were sentenced for transportation in the County Court, as also two convicts from Tralee, were transmitted to Dublin, from thence to be shipped for Nova Scotia.

This day, Joseph Gabbett, Esq; was sworn Mayor, Henry D'Este and Thomas Morony, Esqrs. Sheriffs, George Smyth, Esq; Recorder, and Edward Parker, Esq; Town-Clerk, for the ensuing year.
