

The Limerick Chronicle.

L I M E R I C K.

By particular Desire there will be a Drum at the Assembly House next Thursday Evening

On Thursday last at Oxford, the honorary degree of Master of Arts was conferred on Samuel Silver Oliver, Esq. of Limerick, Ireland; and that of Doctor in Civil Law, on William Mann Godschall, Esq. of Westonhouse, in Surry.

Extract of a letter from a gentleman at Nevi, to his correspondent in Cork, dated Oct. 24. 1789.

A most dreadful earthquake happened in a town belonging to the Pope, called Citadi Castello, about 60 miles from Rome, towards Tuscany; this town was one of the richest in the Pope's territories, and contained about 15,000 inhabitants. The first shock was felt at 11 o'clock on Wednesday, the 30th of September A. M. it was preceded by no signs attendant on earthquakes; it lasted two minutes, when the whole town was involved in a whirlwind of smook and dust from the falling of houses, churches, and palaces. At the first alarm great numbers of the inhabitants fled towards Rome and saved themselves. The first dreadful shock was followed by many more, and in the intervals nothing was heard but the crushing of buildings, the few remaining were so shattered as not to be known. Many people were dragged from the ruins, (as the Italians express it) semivivi, and in a short space of time 1000 have been found dead, but the number of unhappy sufferers is supposed to exceed considerably, as a much greater must have suffered. This town was not the only sufferer, five villages in the country were so totally destroyed that not one stone was left upon another; besides four convents, in one of which the greatest part of the Monks were killed. This account may be relied on, as I have taken it from an authentic one, printed at Rome a few days ago.—The earthquake still continues in the neighbourhood of Citadi Castello.

A duel was fought on the 26th of May, by Capt. Thomas Baker, and Jacob Brown, Esq. of Camden, South Carolina: they fired together, at the distance of ten yards, and both fell; Capt. Baker was shot through the body and expired in the field, in about twelve minutes. Mr. Brown was shot in the lower part of his belly, and the ball was cut out of his left side, but he died twenty hours after. When these gentlemen had fallen, they conversed calmly together and exchanged forgiveness.

The Countess of Westmoreland was brought to bed of a dead child, on the 30th of last month, her ladyship is however, very well, and will soon set out from London for Dublin.

We again earnestly entreat the Farmers attention to his Potatoes, if men cannot be readily procured, a Plough with two horses at length will turn out near an acre a day, though they are planted in beds, and cleaner than with the spade, a few women and boys with forks after the Plough will collect them.

The Rev. Deane Hoare, acknowledges the Receipt of two Guineas (from a lady unknown) thro' the hands of Richard Hawkshaw, Esq. for the County Infirmary.

Committed to Carlow gaol on Wednesday 25th Nov. last, by William Bernard, Esq; one John Lucas, a letter-carrier of this town, charged with feloniously breaking open a letter directed to Mr. James Dunn, of Graigue, Carlow, and taking thereout bank notes to the amount of 30l. It appears that this Lucas, not understanding the value of the notes, applied to a gentleman of this town for the information, who suspecting the cheat, apprised the post-master, Mr. Airy, who immediately had the young rogue apprehended, and upon a due and close examination and scrutiny, extorted a confession of the above circumstances from him, after many evasive answers, all which have since been corroborated by other undeniable proofs.—Carlow Mercury.

Curious Hand Bill; from a London Paper.

Extensive as the power of ridicule is, there are some great crimes too shocking to be affect- ed by it.—Among those, perhaps, are suicide, and the rage for spectacles of blood and bar- barity now so common. The following hand- bill is a well meant, but probably ineffectual attack on both.

THOMAS TOUCHWOOD, Gent. proposes on the last day of this present November, to shoot himself by subscription. His life being of no further use to himself or his friends, he takes this method of endeavouring to turn his death to some account;—and the novelty of the per- formance;—he hopes, will merit the attention and patronage of the public.

He will perform with two pistols, the first shot to be directed through the abdomen, to which will be added another through his brain, the whole to conclude with staggering con- vulsions, grinning, &c. in a manner never before publicly attempted.

The doors to be opened at eight, and the exhibition to begin precisely at nine.

Particular places, for that night only, re- served for the Ladies.

No money to be returned, nor half price taken.—Vivant Rex & Regina!

N. B. Beware of counterfeiters and impostors. —The person who advertises to hang himself the same night, in opposition to Mr. Touch- wood, is a taylor, who intends to give only a representation of death by dancing in a collar, an attempt infinitely inferior to Mr. T's origi- nal and authentic performance.
