memory of the Archdeacon by the erection of a handsome mural tablet within the walls of the parish church, which he contributed so bountifully to erect, and the site of which a munificent subscription, were presented by the late Lord Headley. Archdeacon Forster was Vicar General of the Diocese of Limerick, having been appointed to that office by the lamented Bishop Jebb. He also filled the office of Commissary, and administered the affairs of the United Diocese of Limerick, Ardferit and Aghadoe, during the absence from this country of that respected Prelate, and afterwards during the Episcopacy of the late Honourable and Right Rev. Bishop Knox, who, as a mark of respect, appointed him to the Archdeaconry of Aghadoe, which he held until his death, at the advanced age of 76 years. He was universally respected as a clergyman and gentleman, and remarkable for his inostentatious piety, Christian charity, and inobtrusive manners.

A sermon will be preached in Cork to-morrow by the Rev. Henry Westropp in aid of the Protestant Orphan Society of that county and city.

The Rev. Robert Forrest preaches in St. Peter's Church, Cork, to-morrow, in aid of the funds of St. Peter's Infant School; and the Rev. James Burkett, at St. Annes, Shandon, in aid of the Society for Missions to seamen.

The Lord Bishop of Cork has proceeded to London to attend his parliamentary duties.

The Rev. A. Ramsay is to preach in the French Church, Cork, to-morrow, in aid of the Primitive Wesleyan Methodist education fund.

The new church at Lisdoonvarna will be opened for public worship on to-morrow. Rev. Mr. Fleming, the respected curate, has exerted himself untiringly in collecting subscriptions for the erection of this new edifice, which will be a great accommodation to visitors at the Spa during the summer months.

The Rev. Charles Conroy is appointed to the Vicarage of Kilmainham Wood, diocese of meath, vacant by the resignation of the Rev. Hugh Gelston, late Incumbent. The Rev. Joseph M'Cormack has also been appointed to the newly created parish or benefice of Killea, in the diocese of Waterford, and comprising the parishes of Rathmoylan, Crooke, and Killea.

On Thursday last, the octave day of Corpus Christi, over 300 children received their first Communion in St. John's parish.

Great excitement prevails at Bonmahon, County Waterford, consequent upon a visit to that locality by the Redemptorist Fathers, whose mission is opposed by the local clergy, who have formed themselves into a body to make a counter movement, and challenged the Redemptorists to controversial discussions, which the latter, acting sub-silentio, have declined to accept. On Thursday, the feast of Corpus Christi, the Protestant clergy proceeded from the Rectory towards the Chapel, where they arrived before the people were out, and found a large crowd standing in front which they passed through, two and two—Rev. Messrs. Wilkinson, and Parker in front, Rev. Messrs. Hanlon and Gloster in the middle, and Rev. Messrs. De Renzy and Fitzpatrick in the rear. Some boys raised a shout, and this naturally caused great excitement, when some persons were heard to say in Irish "crush them." There was a good deal of pushing about, but nothing more occurred. Although they have not succeeded in inducing the Redemptorists to 'plead' before the people, and prove from the Scriptures that what they are teaching is from God, yet the clergy are delivering sermons, and special addresses to their own congregations.

The Bristol papers state that Mr. Sykes, B.A., of Trinity College, Dublin, was received into the Catholic church, at Clifden cathedral, a few days ago.
