

tion of the constitution of the Irish Lights. The Belfast Harbour Commissioners wrote me ago that it would be desirable that a joint committee of the principal Harbour Boards should be appointed to consult with the President of the Board of Trade with a view to securing representation of Harbour Trusts on several Light House Boards of the United Kingdom. Mr. Boyd submitted copy of a Bill to the law with regard to light houses and abolition of light dues. This Bill was prior to the Liverpool Steamship Owners Association. The clause which, he said, most interested the Harbour Board was No. 7, which provided that members of the English, Scotch, and Irish Light House Committees shall be appointed by the President of the Board of Trade, provided a majority of the English Light House Committee shall consist of persons representative of the shipping trade of England and Wales; and with regard to the Scotch and Irish Light House Committees—that they shall consist of persons representative of the shipping trade of the United Kingdom. Such persons, it was added, shall be appointed upon the nomination of such shipping trade Associations (or Mr. Boyd proposed "Harbour authorities") etc., as shall be determined by Order in Council.

Power would not be in favour of handing the Irish Lights Board to Shipping Organization. If they were appointed through the local authority it would be a different matter. Holliday asked what action Dublin would be taking in the matter. Secretary said that the matter had been discussed with the Cork Harbour Commissioners, and they had referred it to the Finance Committee. Further consideration of the subject was not taken.

HOLIDAYS.

Secretary and Harbour Engineer were granted their annual leave of absence, to be taken in intervals as would suit the convenience of the Board.

Harbour employees wrote requesting a half holiday on each day of the races. It was agreed to give the employees the option of a half holiday on the race day instead of one of the usual holidays. Other business was routine.

AGED INCENDIARISM IN COUNTY LIMERICK.

Lucy, before Mr. Hickson, R.M., Denis Lucy, bed as a tramp carpenter, from Mill-street, Cork, was brought up on remand, charged with maliciously setting fire to a thatched cottage, occupied by Mr. David Keane, at Castletown Conyers. On the night of the 4th inst. the police found the thatched cottage ablaze. Having awakened the inmates of the house, they succeeded with the assistance of some neighbours in putting out the fire. Lucy was the first to give the alarm to the police, but in consequence of his contradictory statements they took him into custody on suspicion of having caused the fire. He was brought before Mr. D. G. Conyers on the 5th inst. and remanded for eight days. He was now, on the application of Sergeant Michael, further remanded by Mr. Hickson.
