

overt back to Liverpool! That the greatest evils often proceed from the best things being abused or ill applied, is exemplified in this case, and we should hasten to correct the parent error from which the evils we have pointed out have sprung. A noble general cause should not suffer by a mistaken favour conferred on an undeserving locality; and therefore we rejoice to hear that the Packet Station may be transferred from Galway to Foynes. While the former was vaunting its natural advantages, and doing nothing to make them available, the Shannon still kept even tenor of its way, and the railroads also kept approaching its borders, till the communication was perfect between the mouth of the "noble" river and the great towns of the north, the east and the south of our Island. It is now in a position to receive, and do ample justice to, any postal service with which it is favoured—Tratee Chronicle.

It was rumoured that Mr. M'Cann, M.P. for Drogheda, would resign to make room for Mr. O'Hagan (Solicitor General), in case the learned gentleman becomes Attorney General, and required to render service in Parliament; but all foundation for that on dit has been repudiated.
