

THE LIMERICK CHRONICLE, SATURDAY

ally fell foul of the maintained should administration of the secretary pointed out entrusted with the considering, however,
Mr Healy could not is reply, if it were not ranchise that except in age the works would boards largely elected

That being so, it is not have fully adopted ation in proportion to are actuated by an
the interests of the conserved. Curious ment to the proposals representative, Mr.
extensive knowledge hat "as the proposed deal in character, and benefit of landlords, all ertaken by, and at the al administration. He the system of devoting prayers to the carrying in Ireland, and characto Cerberus. If, how-spent, it would be laid if the House gave to ance, some measure of or no sop, a grant of action of Irish public despised in these times ty of employment, and the matter is evidently embers. Of course the modifications, and will
1. So far, however, as vent—the debate having lfour may be satisfied his bills were received

CLARE CASTLE FAIR.—This fair, held on Thursday, was well supplied with cattle, sheep, and pigs. It was considered a tolerably good one, and a large amount of business was transacted. The prices were steady, but showed a slight reduction of those realised at the recent quarterly fair of Clonroad. Yearlings were in great demand at from £8 to £11; two-year-olds, £11 to £14; three-year-olds, £13 to £16 each. There was a fine show of sheep, prime hoggets fetching from 42s to 52s each. Pigs were cleared off at from 47s per cwt for berwicks to 49s for bacon, Limerick buyers securing choice lots.

FOUND DROWNED.—Yesterday evening the body of a child named John Beehan was discovered in the river at the foot of Shannon-street by some boatmen. The child had been missing since Tuesday or Wednesday evening, and as no trace of him could be found in the city, it was deemed advisable to institute a search in the river, with the result stated. Deceased was about seven years of age, and it seems left his home in Arthur's Quay in company with younger twin brothers, from whom he strayed. Mr M. DeCourcy and a jury held an inquest on the body last evening, and evidence having been given, a verdict of accidental death from drowning was returned.

ERRATUM.—We desire to correct an error which occurred in the opening remarks of Mr George Boyd, chairman of the Congregational Union meeting of Wednesday evening. He is reported to have said that "it was always his desire that he should occupy that position, and it was only because he was one of the oldest members of the Congregational Church of Limerick." What Mr Boyd actually did say was—"It is not my desire that I should occupy the chair, but being one of the oldest members of the Church I accede to the request." It is only due to our representative to state that he occupied a position at the side of the dais, not a particularly good one from which to hear the speakers.

SALES OF PROPERTY.—We learn that Mr Bernal is about to place before the public, the valuable interest of a portion of the estate of the late Rev Joseph Gabbett, consisting of Shelbourne House, and lands on the Circular Road, Limerick, and the handsome and commodious Marine Lodge, on the West Cliff, Kilkee, with all the furniture and fittings, by an order of the High Court of Justice in Ireland. Also, if an immediate arrangement is not concluded, the charming suburban villa, Kyleglass, on the Circular Road, built and fitted with every desirable requisite for the comfort of its inmates.

RE-OPENING OF KILLARNEY

Archdeacon Wynne, the parishioner of Killarney and its beautiful district, and, in the name of the Church of Ireland in general, may we congratulate upon the imposing and interesting ceremonies which on Wednesday last witnessed the re-opening of the beautiful church of Killarney for Divine Service. This church, which was burned down a little more than a year ago, and it is a cheering and powerful proof of the energy with which its restoration was effected, that the building has not only risen from its ashes more beautiful than in its prime, but a very fine organ has also been purchased, which instrument was dedicated to use at the special service on Wednesday evening. The building is cruciform, and consists of a north transept, in which is the organ, a south transept, and chancel, with a very fine octagonal apse. The roof is panelled with pine, of which material the benches are constructed. The pulpit and prayer-desk are of white stone, with granite columns, an effective combination; and most of the windows are of richly stained glass. The windows of the nave and transepts are decorated in the well-known Dublin artist, Mr. G. Elvay, and were we to be hyper-critical we might say that possibly too lavish a use has been made of the stencil-plate; but the colours chosen, and the effect is very rich. On the occasion of the re-opening ceremony the church was generously beautified with the varied hues and lovely odours of flowers, and other charms to the scene. The service was performed by the clergy, represented by the Revs. Mr. E. Aghadoe, Ardfert, Cork, and Limerick, who presided at the house of Mr F. Nugent, opposite the church, at 11.30 o'clock, thence in full canonicals to the church at 12 o'clock, the building being completely filled with an earnest and devout congregation. The service was headed by his Lordship the Bishop of Cork (who occupied the place of the late Bishop of Limerick, and then followed by the Revs. Mr. Archdeacon of Ardfert, the Archdeacon of Limerick, Rector of Canons Nicholson, D. Powell, R. V. Moore; Revs. Dr. Haydn (Diocese of Limerick), Dr. MacEwen, Dr. Cotter, G. A. Isaac, F. Foster, J. S. White, W. H. Maginn, W. H. Godfrey, C. Tyndal, J. Wade, J. Swanzy, R. Beatty, and others. The service was almost entirely in English, the anthem, "I was glad when they said unto me, I will go and dwell in the house of the Lord," being rendered by Sir G. Elvay, being rendered